

DIG DESSERTS? YOU'RE IN LUCK! TWO NEW DESSERT STOPS LOOK SET TO SWEETEN YOUR DAYS (AND EXPAND YOUR WAISTLINES!)

Gobi At Gobi, desserts are petite. Much like its lady owner Aiming, a former business analyst who fleshed out her dream of opening a dessert shop after a trip to Mongolia's Gobi desert left her craving for sweets.

Get your hands on full-size cakes (500 g to 800 g — no wider than a saucer plate and feeds about six, from $36) in new flavours like spicy sacher torte, chocolate therapy, tiramisu, strawberry shortcake and ivory tower, as well as her signature petit dessert series ($12.80 for box of six). And be sure to try the flaming raspberry — white chocolate mousse, raspberry bavaois and chunky raspberry coulis on fluffy genoise blanc and white chocolate crumble. #01-27 The Central, 6 Eu Tong Sen Street.
